Sign up for a SPEECH & LANGUAGE SCREENING

Is your child growing up with more than one language?

Children growing up with more than one language often develop each language at a different pace. That makes it hard to measure them against the usual milestones.

This play-based screening uses research-based tools designed with multilingual children in mind. You'll come away with a clearer picture of your child's speech and language development and ideas to keep all their languages growing.

Hi! I'm Hilary

I am a speech-language pathologist, owner of Stavanger Speech Therapy, and I specialize in working with multilingual children.

American Speech-Language-Hearing Association certified (M.S., CCC), NOKUT approved, and Mom to 2 bilingual boys

In my 12 years in Norway, I've met many multilingual families who weren't getting clear information about their child's language development, or didn't know who to ask.

That is why I offer this screening to children. I believe every family should know how their child is doing and where to turn if they ever need help.

FAQs

My child is still learning English. Is that ok?

Yes! The screening was designed especially for children still learning English.

My child is doing well. Should we still participate?

Yes! Every child benefits from a check-in, and you'll get ideas to keep all their languages growing.

We already go to the helsestasjon. Why do this too?

This screening adds a closer look at their English development. The helsestasjon looks at your overall health and development.

What happens after the screening?

Every family gets a short written summary of how their child is doing. If something needs a closer look, I'll explain what I noticed, what it might mean, and your options for next steps, including free public support.

Is a screening from a private therapist a conflict of interest?

The screening is for you, whether or not you use my services. My goal is to connect families who need it with the right support for their child, public or private.
